MAKE A DIFFERENCE: JOIN THE CAMPAIGN

The Campaign for America's State Park, energized by a $1 million donation from the Devil's Lake Concessions Board in mid-2022, is mobilizing volunteers to raise funds for an $18 million Interpretive Center. "We're getting into the community, building awareness and interacting with potential donors," said Bernadette Greenwood, co-chair of the capital campaign. "Citizens are reacting positively to our presentations and the need for a new center to teach about the park's culture and history." Volunteers have also taken the campaign into the park and community at events. We hope you join in as a volunteer or donor by sending an email to Bernadette at bgreenwood@friendsofdevilslake.org to help make the center a reality. Gifts are accepted at friendsofdevilslake.org/donate or to the Friends at P.O. Box 209, Baraboo, WI 53913.

THE CONCEPT OF FRILUFTSLIV

By Sue Johansen-Mayolett, Park Naturalist

Welcome to January and it seems like we've been stuck in gray, cloudy days for weeks now. All the wonderful snow the area received in December has melted into icy, crusty layers with lots of icy patches underneath making it a bit of a challenge to get out onto the trails. Nothing about our recent weather makes you want to get up and get outside, which is why my husband and I have been practicing the Scandinavian concept of friluftsliv (pronounced free-loofts-liv) which translates roughly to 'open-air living.' This concept is widely popular across the Nordic countries where, despite freezing temperatures and very few hours of sunlight throughout the winter months, getting outside and embracing the outdoors is an important part of life, not only in the winter months, but all year around.

It's not a secret that getting outdoors in nature is good for your mental and physical health. From the serotonin boosting effects of sunlight exposure to the impact a walk in a natural setting can have on your mood. No matter where you get outside, whether it's in a place like Devil's Lake or your local green space, being outside can provide a whole host of benefits. Not only does getting out reconnect us with nature, but it's also been proven to reduce levels of anxiety, stress and depression. A recent study found that spending at least 120 minutes a week in nature leads to a greater well-being and makes us happier. Although, when the weather isn't the best, like it's pouring rain, there's gray skies for days or the temperatures are below zero, and you'd rather stay inside and enjoy coffee while reading, embracing the concept of friluftsliv is all about putting those hesitations behind you. There's a couple of Norwegian sayings I try to remember when the weather just doesn't motivate me to get outside. One saying is "Det finnes ikke dårlig vær, bare dårlig klær!" which translates to "There is no bad weather, only bad clothes!" And the other is "Ut på tur, aldri sur", directly translating to "Out on hike, never in a bad mood". That last saying I needed recently when my husband and I looked at each other, neither of us motivated to get out. We then
